3. Criteria for Compiling the Ranking

The process for selecting the winner, to be undertaken by a commission composed of a professor from the University's Department of Law and a representative of QUALCOMM, will be split into two stages: an initial assessment of the letter of presentation and curricula of the candidates and a subsequent interview.

- up to a maximum of 30 points on the basis of the letter of presentation disclosing the key reasons for the chosen study path, the major of interest, as well as an inclination towards the topics of the Courses and Labs of interest to the partner funding the scholarship (<https://landing.luiss.it/xyzcamp/>);

The students selected for the interview will receive an e-mail with precise details of how the assessment will be conducted as well as the date and time of the interview: in case of unjustified absence, the student will be excluded from the selection process.

The rankings will be published at the University's Financial Aid web pages by the end of July 2022.
